THE EDELIAN

OF LIBBEY

PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS OF

FOREWORD

Jubilance, laughter, vivacity, and speed, the attendants of youth, reflect our happy school days. The responsibility of years is inevitable, yet it is possible to catch and to hold these moments of happiness, these brief interludes of friendship, these flashes of joy and ambition. As we add one more year book to our store of treasures, we do so in the hope that this, the Edelian of 1938, will be to us a joyful and constant reminder of our life and activities at Libbey.

MARY ELIZABETH MCGUIRE

DEDICATION

A fine little lady is she with her lightsome heart, her kindly eyes, and her merry smile for everyone. She has served the schools of Toledo a long time indeed as a teacher in both the elementary and high schools, and all of her life she has been a resident of the South Side. In her witty and interesting way she has taken her friends and students on many a joyous trip around the world, for she has combined her teaching subject, Commercial Geography, with her hobby of travel, and delightful are the tales that she can tell of wandering here and there. Now as the Senior Class departs, its members look with respect and affection at Miss Mary McGuire, as they sincerely dedicate to her this Edelian of 1938 and wish for her every happiness and blessing that life can bring to one with such a warm and generous heart.

The Lakes of Killarney and the Wishing Well of Ireland

HARRY STAPLETON

IN

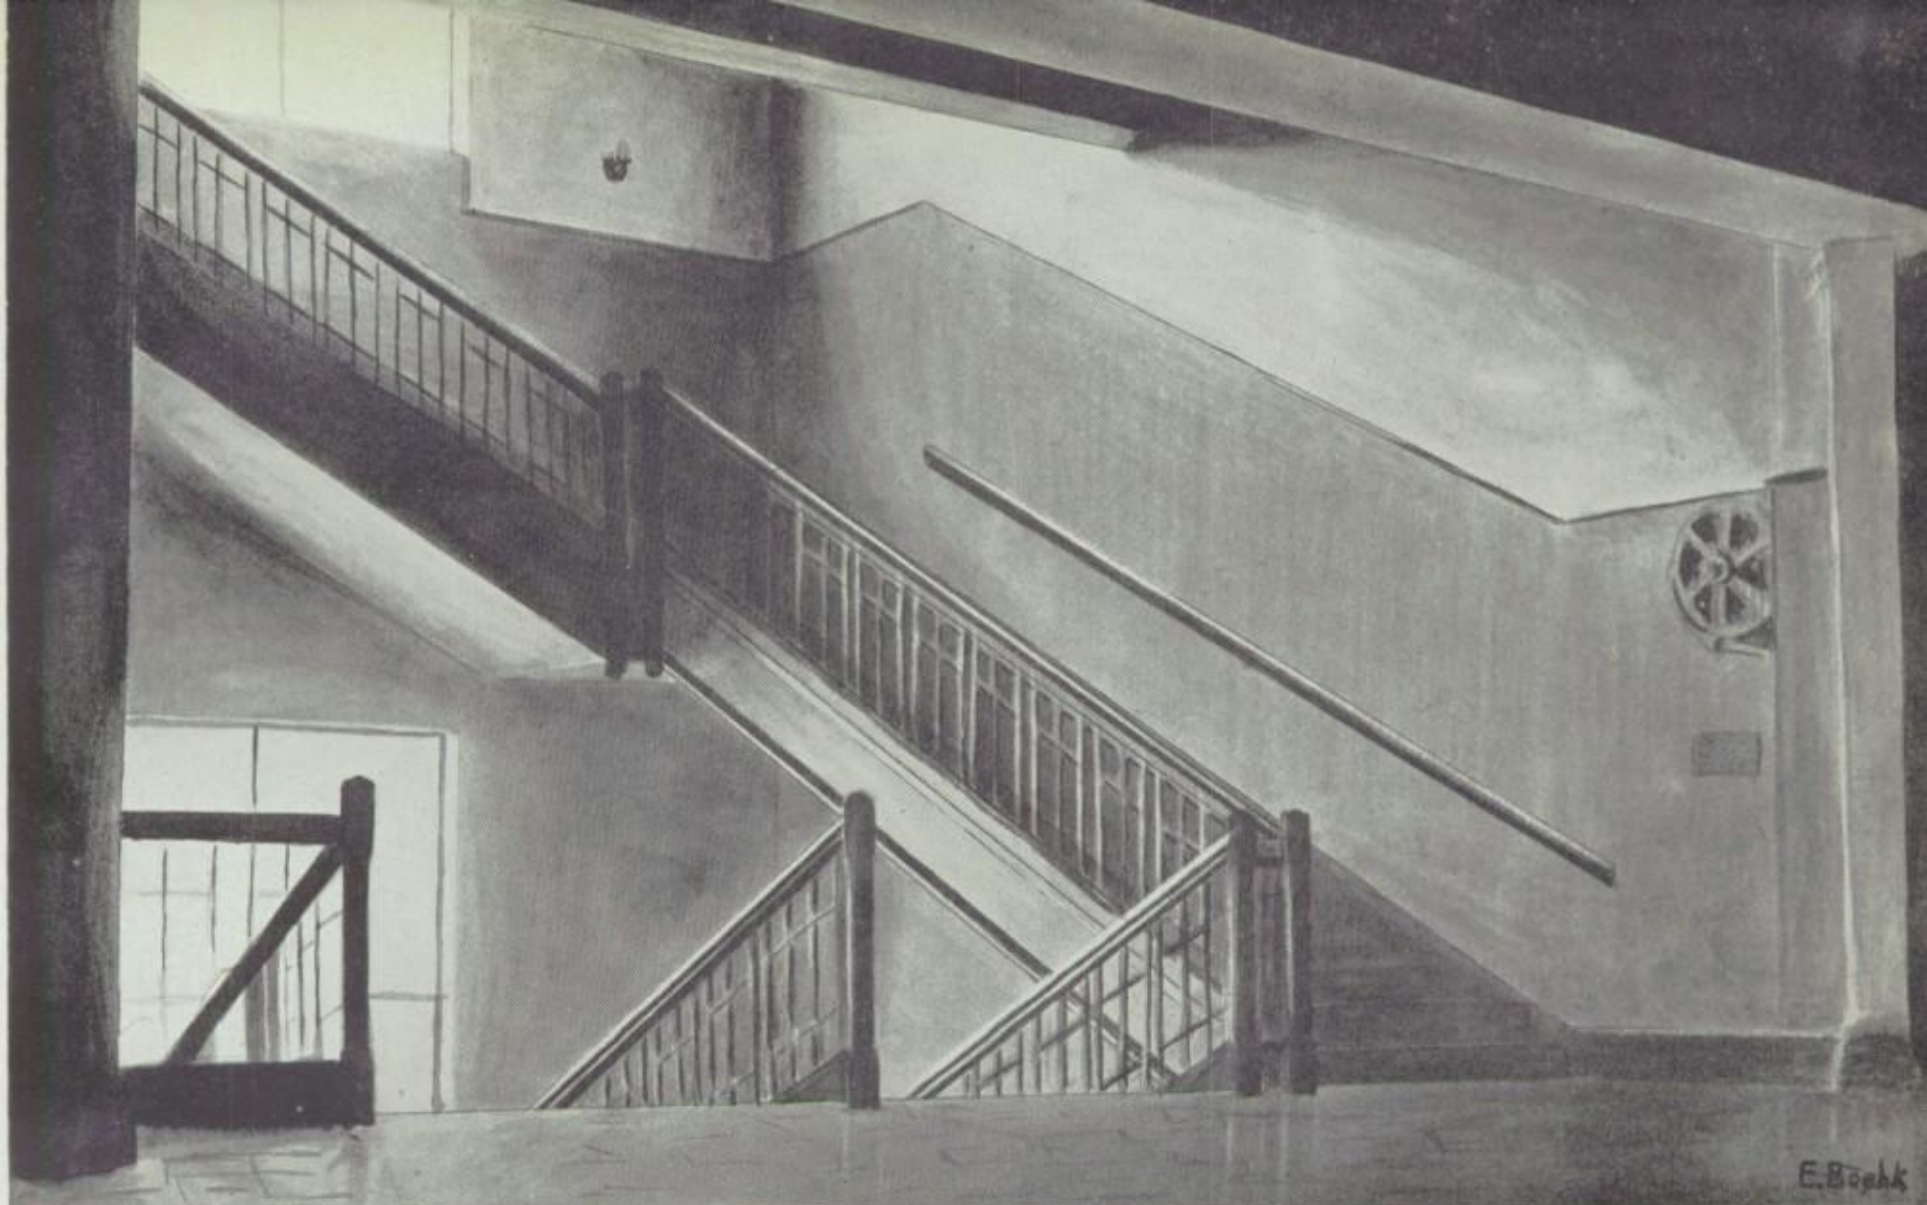

Mindful of the splendid services that he had rendered to the school that was so dear to him, the students of Libbey, only a year ago, lovingly dedicated the Edelian to one of their teachers, wishing him prosperity and joy. And now with hearts that are saddened with loss, but still with a feeling of love, these students are again paying tribute to the same teacher. But with what difference! For death has taken Harry Stapleton from us and the joy that we wished him is his in a richer, fuller sense, and the prosperity we hoped for him is not fraught with materialism, but transformed into an influence that will be treasured in our school forever. We need not recount his deeds of service, for we remember them every one. We need not remind ourselves that he was a part of Libbey from the very year that it was opened, and that every position he had earned with diligence and effort he filled with great efficiency. We do not dare even to grieve too much that he is gone, lest by our selfish wish to have him here, we mar the deep serenity of peace that now is his. We shall remember him, and as the years go on, the image and the thought of him shall be a strength that shall not die.

MEMORIAM

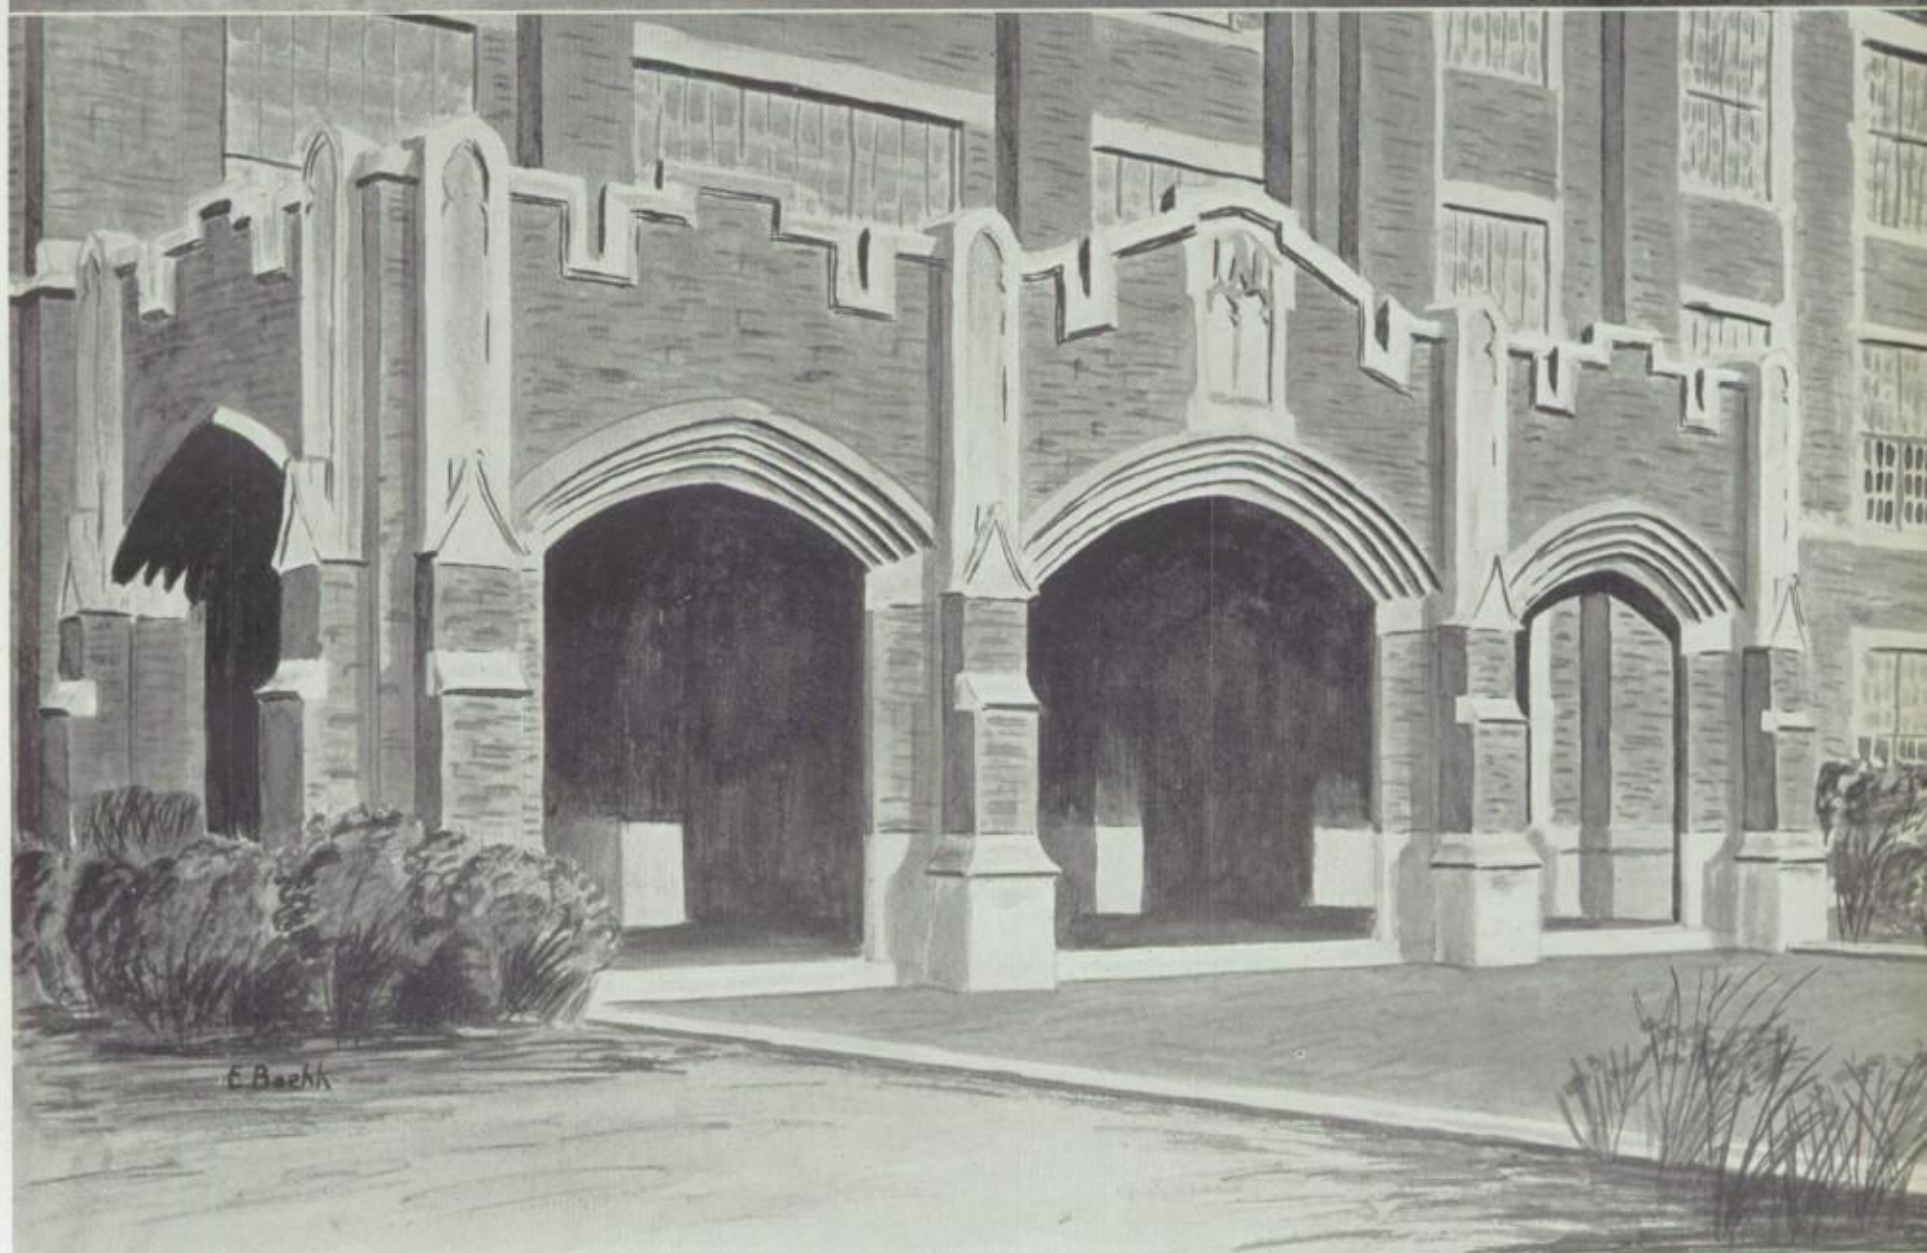

ECHOES...

Elusive things are these:
The memory of a dream,
The daylight's sudden leave,
The sweet farewell of youth.

E. B. B. B.

GLIMPSES...

There's a lilt to a corner as it hurries out of sight
That teases you and tempts you till you dare
To hope that if you follow it, you'll find a great delight,
But there's just another corner waiting there.

SUPERINTENDENT

At the end of his first year of leadership in the schools of Toledo, Libbey is happy to congratulate our superintendent, Mr. Bowsher, upon the results that he has so successfully achieved. Because we believe in his ability as an administrator and have faith in his judgment and wisdom, we extend to him our pledge of co-operation and loyalty in any project that he may enter upon to improve the social and educational status of our city, and we hope sincerely that he may enjoy continued success and happiness in every way.

HAROLD E. WILLIAMS

PRINCIPAL

To dispense kindness, fairness, and patience in their proper allotments to all the people who come under his guidance and to control with a steady mind and hand the constantly increasing problems that confront him are the tasks so ably performed by our principal, Mr. Williams. Regardless of difficulty, he has carried the program for Libbey into splendid execution upon every occasion, inspiring both students and faculty by his enthusiasm and interest. For his constancy and goodness he deeply merits our loyalty and our love.

Martha Gosline Weds Prof. Willard Smith

Miss Martha Gosline, 1817 Wellesley drive, and Willard Albon Smith, Lake Forest, Ill., former Toledoan, were married yesterday afternoon by Justice Alvir N. Haulund in Maumee.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Martha Gosline and Robert Gosline, former common pleas judge. Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Smith, 3623 Willys park.

The bride is an English teacher in Libbey high school. She will continue teaching until the end of this semester, when she will go to Lake Forest. Mr. Smith is a professor of history in Lake Forest college and is reading for his doctor's degree in history at Harvard.

He has won two scholarships in that university, one for study there and one for travel in Europe during the summer of 1939. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Toledo and later studied at Georgetown university.

Mrs. Smith received her bachelor's degree from the University of Toledo and her master's degree from Columbia university.

Robert Gosline, brother of the bride, and Florence Smith, sister of the bridegroom, were the attendants. The wedding party had dinner afterward in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morlin Bell in their Toledo drive home. Clair Fisher also was a member of the party.

We wonder who's behind that mask creating his own fourth of July . . . Cumberworth and Neal are practicing their favorite indoor sport . . . George Webb, with Mary Lou, Jane, and Florence are already to burst into "Our Libbey Colors—" . . . Mr. Spackey promised us a party with his little, blue thermos bottle, but we never got it. . . . By Robert Hill's and Melvin Deca's serious expressions it must be interesting work they're doing. . . . Students like Marie Rogers and Dick Weber have been efficiently served through the year by supersalesmen Black and Anderson. . . . Marion must be quoting from a joke book to get such interest as Frank, Bob, Walt and Dick are giving her . . . Knighthood reblossomed when Howard assisted Margaret down. But how did she get up? . . . "Tiny" after being weighed and measured was declared worth his weight in gold—and plenty of it.

FUTILITY

Down through the ages to us comes
The din of battle, roll of drums.
Each age has risen to alarms
And needlessly been called to arms.
The pomp and glory fade away
Just as the light at close of day;
And nations fail to understand,
But simply seize what they demand.

Low dies the tumult of the fight
Stillness follows as does the night.
When all is quiet once again,
Man little dreams it was in vain.
Nor does he dream the glow near by
Is not the glory of the sky,
But the poor earth, deep-stained and red,
With kindred's blood in battle shed.

Dear God, the father of us all,
Who first made man, then saw him fall,
Because he tried with all his might,
To make great things with which to fight;
Dear God, who died that we might live,
Watch over us and please forgive
When we, as men have done before,
Delight in battle and in gore.

CORINNE MEISTER

VALEDICTORY

The time has come for us, the Class of Nineteen Thirty-Eight, to say farewell to Libbey High School. Four years of stimulating intellectual contacts and precious social experiences are ended. With their termination, our hearts are filled with conflicting emotions. We are proud that we have conquered the many difficulties which have lurked along the path to success. Yet this pride is slightly shadowed by a cloud of regret because we must leave familiar, beloved scenes and approach strange, new ones. Fortunately, our enjoyable Libbey experiences never can be lost completely. It is true that we can live them again only in memory, but this impregnable stronghold will preserve everything from momentous athletic victories to bits of conversation which were part of our high school life. As the years go by, we shall realize more and more the true value of these memories. Now we are eagerly peering forward into a future that we hope will be as lovely as the past.

Our destiny is still an unfathomable mystery. Shall we find our places in the complicated social system of our times? Have we the power to overcome sorrows and to find happiness in our every day routine? Shall we make great contributions to art or science? Can we use our talents to their best advantage in the world? These are the questions we are asking ourselves. Time alone can answer them. However, we may be fairly certain of success if our best efforts have been spent in developing the most valuable asset youth can acquire—strong and noble character.

In our tasks during the past four years, our principal and our teachers have furnished the incentive for our studies; they have directed our thoughts toward worthwhile things. Now it becomes our duty to strive by ourselves to reach the heights pointed out to us. We may not reach these ideals, but we may try to attain them. In the words of Carl Schurz:

"Ideals are like stars. You will not succeed in touching them with your hands; but, like the seafaring man on the desert of waters, you chase them as your guides, and, following them, you eventually reach your destiny."

Undoubtedly the value of the efforts of those who have guided our scholastic careers in Libbey will make itself more manifest to us as we grow older. At this time all we can do is to express to them our deepest gratitude and to give them a promise that they shall not have toiled in vain.

And now as we leave Libbey High School to devote our talents to new fields of knowledge and industry, we depart with smiles on our lips, but with tears in our eyes—smiles in anticipation of what lies ahead of us, tears for the "days that are no more."

Our past, our present, and our future will be a success, a glorious whole, if each one of us can put into practice the philosophy of Robert Browning, who said:

"The common problem—yours, mine, everyone's—
Is not to fancy what were fair in life
Provided it could be; but, finding first
What may be, then find how to make it fair
Up to our means—a very different thing!"

May the solution of this problem be the aim of every member of our class!

Juanita, Joy, Manning, Max, and Dorothy are so engrossed in their latest edition that if one of these Crystalers stumbled down the steps, the others wouldn't even notice it . . . Behind the scenes! Joy, Roy, and Judith spent long hours after school arranging stage property . . . Dr. Charles Williams, Libbey's most generous patron converses interestingly on one of the fine pictures he has given us . . . By the interested looks, Dale must have big things in store for his helpers, Dick Gail, Lois Hemsoth, Warren Schmakel, and Edith Boone to plan for the Junior Class . . . Whatever the joke was it certainly must have been a good one that made Mary, Ramona, and Maryanne laugh so . . . And every morning you paid for this . Well, it was well worth it! . . . This is proof that they truly work in the industrial department.

EDELIAN

A bit trite to call a year book a book of memories, you may say. Yet a book of memories it truly is. And to the staff that moaned and groaned, walked, talked, and played a bit in its preparation the memories of the Edelian of 1938 will be unusually dear for they carefully watched it grow from a blank dummy to the crowning event of the Senior Banquet when its cover, designed by Elmer Boehk, was admired and its contents eagerly scanned.

The advertising and circulation was supervised by Mr. Martin and his staff. Dick McEwen managed the ads, while the circulation was led by Katherine Newman and Verdine Lewis, aided by Lois Hemsoth, Violet Jacoby, and Geraldine Wood. The fine drawings in the opening section were done by Hugh Riffner, Elmer Boehk, and Earl Brubaker in the classes of Mr. Packer. Mr. Dipman patiently took all the snaps used in the book, walking miles and continuing in a good humor. Efficiency and dependability won top places for Margaret Frank and Eugene Rohrbacher for they were editor and associate editor, respectively. Julia Marsh and Ruth Priest were senior editors; Ellen Ruble and Martha Lewis, clubs; Bob Stahl and Laurin King, sports; snaps, Arline Yaekel; faculty, Virginia Adams, and classes, Margaret Duffey. Junior assistants were Mary Becker, Mary Ann Watson, and Ramona Knerr. As usual Miss Dusha directed the Edelian, while the position of counsellor-in-chief was held by our principal, Mr. Williams.

CRYSTAL

Follow us into Room 215. Here we find the Crystal staff, as hard a gang of newspaper men and women as you'll find in the racket. Go up and look in the door. Yes, there you see, sitting in stern and business-like attitudes, all engaged in the absorbing job of putting out a newspaper, the future Winchells, Brisbanes, and foreign correspondents of the world. Furthermore, we know they're one of the best looking staffs we've ever had. From this group has come a corking-good publication, brimming with news to interest both students and teachers, and in getting the news they cover every angle of the school's functions and activities. They eke out news from both pupils and the faculty, but in doing so, treat every subject with fairness and consideration.

The staff includes, Betty Postley and Betty Bock, news editors; Joy Feemster, circulation and exchange editor; Manning Hanline, sports editor; and Juanita Schultz, feature editor, all of whom served under their advisers, Mr. Williams and Miss Gerdes. The staff members include, Norma Heath, Rhea Heiptman, Dorothy Leck, Caroline Plontz, Virginia Youngs, Richard Hansen, Russell Nunn, Weller Schaffer, Max Tadlock, and Carl Weiss. The Crystal, in its eighth year as a newspaper, has been successful both financially and literarily. It has brought us all the news and happenings in and about our school, and has helped us to keep in contact more easily with social events and with the pupils who make up Libbey. The final issues of the year were especially dedicated to the seniors, containing the class will and the prophecy.

NATIONAL

"To be elected to the National Honor Society is to show special achievements in Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service. No greater honor can come to a high school pupil." This statement made at the annual induction of new members in February, sums up the ideal for which every student should strive.

Taking into consideration the four requisites of membership, the faculty takes the list of eligibles from the junior and senior classes and carefully weighs the qualities of each pupil. After long and careful deliberation, each member of the faculty votes for the ones he believes to be most deserving of membership in the society. According to the charter regulated by the national organization, only a very small percent of the pupils may be bestowed with the much coveted honor. And an honor it is, for the National Honor Society in high schools corresponds to the Phi Beta Kappa in college.

Not only is this organization a society in name, but in action also. There is a program which it carries out during the year, influencing directly or indirectly the entire student body. Since many colleges and universities offer opportunities for scholarships, the honor society endeavors to help anyone interested to obtain one of these by securing all necessary information concerning them. Too, Dr. Nash, of The University of the City of Toledo, was asked to give an address to the students concerning what they are planning on doing upon leaving school. He discussed the many opportunities for students to continue with college work and also offered a bit of advice to those who know that they will not be able to continue their education. In addition to these activities, the members have social times. A breakfast was held as soon as the weather was permissible so that the new members and old could become better acquainted. Upon returning to school after the Easter holidays, a committee headed by Bette Bock had arranged a back-to-school dance held in the gymnasium.

With Mr. Hunt as adviser, President Max Tadlock presided over the meetings of the last year. Lending their assistance were Marjorie Schminck, vice president, Bette Bock, secretary-treasurer, and the many able and willing committees.

SENIOR FRIENDSHIP

Wearing bright green sweaterettes and having an ever present smile on their faces, the Senior Friendship girls may be seen around Libbey halls at any time, ready and willing to help. As it is the last of the Friendship clubs, it holds the leadership and distinction of the series. The group is under the direction of Miss Payne, whose novel ideas together with the aid of the members presented much entertainment and pleasure to the group and others outside the club. They chose Marion Petrecca to be their president and Juanita Schultz, who directed the program which had to do with the Japanese situation, as vice-president. Aiding in the general administration of the club affairs were the other officers: Virginia Bridgewater, secretary; Lois Forquer, treasurer; Fanchon Kreps, chaplain; and Rhea Heiptman, hostess. In accordance with custom, the group conducted the Waite mass meeting, followed by a luncheon in the cafeteria for the football players and their mothers. Their social programs were varied by a talk on child labor, ideas surrendered by the Hi-Y boys on the "Ideal Girl", which proved both distracting and interesting, and a special subject, "Pictures that Preach." They also sent a fully equipped suitcase to a needy Spanish child, corresponded with children at the Miami Children's Home, attempting to bring happiness to the less fortunate.

SENIOR HI-Y

With the Christian ideal still before them the senior Hi-Y boys began their last year at Libbey. To aid the adviser, Principal Harold E. Williams, came Ivan Smith, a great leader of boys, who took over Chal Dyer's work when he left a year ago. Reelecting Frank Black as president, the club chose Eugene Kaucki, vice-president, Manning Hanline, secretary, William Martin, treasurer, and Jack Hawkins, sergeant-at-arms. Many were the group's activities for the year. Among the most outstanding was the vocational guidance program which made it possible for every boy in the senior class to have the aid of an expert to aid him in selecting his life's work. Joining with the Friendship clubs and the other Hi-Y clubs of the city, a series of forums were held during the winter months at the main Y's. There were provided many outstanding speakers who spoke on problems vital to the youth of today. In addition to these, there were parties, some of which were held with the Friendship club, skating parties, and picnics. Closing forever the Hi-Y activities of these boys at Libbey was the annual Mothers' and Sons' banquet honoring the boys' mothers. May these boys leave our school never forgetting the challenge put before them here, "to create, maintain, and extend the highest standards of Christian character throughout the school and community"!

JUNIOR FRIENDSHIP

By sponsoring the Coed Ball, a frolic for the feminine students of Libbey, the Junior Friendship girls established their reputation as "the" party-givers of the school. This, their first effort, a highly successful costume ball, broke precedent by permitting the attendance of two boys, king and queen of the event. At Christmas time, the members served as hostesses to the Junior Hi-Y Club at the Y. W. C. A. In the intervening period they had assisted the athletic department by selling football pins, buttons, and feathers. In the remembrance of their duties and pledges the club has conducted a program to aid the needy or unfortunate. To do this, the members collected two cases of toys and clothing for the children of war-torn Spain, filled baskets for needy families at Christmas, and purchased books for the Miami Children's Home and for the Day Nursery. At the orphans' home they gave a party; and they visited the nursery to acquaint themselves with the work carried on there. In February, they assisted the other Friendship Clubs and the Hi-Y Clubs of Libbey in conducting the first Hi-Y -Friendship Forum at the Y. M. C. A. The officers of the society, Lois Hemsoth, president; Betty Kardatzke, vice-president; Shirley Kroggel, secretary; Eldora Harp, treasurer; and Firth Duffey, chaplain, together with Miss Brown, the adviser, planned the year's activities for the group.

JUNIOR HI-Y

Ideals of the highest calibre are upheld by the forty-nine members of the Junior Hi-Y. Their activities for the year have been many, but the one which was probably most enjoyed was the Ohio Hi-Y Conference for which the Toledo chapter was host this year. Another very worthwhile activity enjoyed throughout the entire year by city-wide members were the forums conducted by Hi-Y organizations of different schools and held on Sunday at the Y. M. C. A. or the Y. W. C. A. The Junior Hi-Y'ers, however, were not content with these few major activities; consequently, they had a supper party early in the year at Side Cut Park and a very successful skating party late in February. In addition to the activities already mentioned the Junior Hi-Y boys held camp at Napoleon, Michigan; they had conferences with the Friendship Clubs; and they entertained at a dance for the Senior Hi-Y and Junior and Senior Friendship Clubs. These boys were not only leaders spiritually, mentally, and morally, but they also excelled in their athletic ability. To prove this ability they won the basketball championship of the city Junior Hi-Y Clubs. Advised by Mr. Williams, Mr. Spackey, and Mr. Ivan Smith, the 1937-'38 chapter of the Junior Hi-Y was lead by Dale Anderson, president; Richard Gail, vice-president; Roy Retzke, secretary; and Harold Will, treasurer. We are sure that next year as Senior Hi-Y members these boys will continue their good work.

SOPHOMORE FRIENDSHIP

The youngest among the Friendship clubs, this sophomore group follows the slogan "Help Others" with as great ardor as ever the seniors exhibit. As always, designing the year's activities to teach, to learn, and to aid, the members have been conducted through the Day Nursery, where small children are boarded and kept while their parents work; they visited the offices and departments of the Telephone Company, and they viewed the Federal Housing projects where homes are being built under the auspices of the National Government. Further in this way, they listened to an address by Miss Kelso, the school nurse. Nor did the club lack in social programs. At Highland Park they enjoyed a roast; at the Y. W. C. A., they held a skating party which was followed by a pot luck supper; there, also their members participated in a splash party. At the orphans' home they entertained with a roast; and later they gave another at Highland Park for the members of the Sophomore Hi-Y club. As chief hostesses of the city-wide Friendship Girls Mothers' and Daughters' Tea, they presented a fine dramatic performance. The work of preparing their schedule of activities fell to Miss Gosline, adviser of the club, and to the officers Martha Sisson, president, Phyllis Petrecca, vice-president, Marion Scharer, secretary, Katherine Retzke, treasurer, and Sally Schwartz, chaplain. Because of the beneficial work accomplished in this, their first year as Friendship Club girls, we can expect even greater achievements in the future two years.

From the second year boys of the school has been selected a group destined to become leaders. Early in the year of 1938 they were initiated into the rites of the Hi-Y organization and found themselves under the guidance of Mr. Williams who, with Mr. Leiser and Mr. Martin, has instilled in them the prime objective of the club's charter, the ideal of creating, maintaining, and extending throughout the school and the community high standards of Christian character. After the induction services by the Junior Hi-Y officers Hugh Tadlock was elected president; Jack Riddle, vice-president; William McCord, secretary, and Elwood Rowsey, treasurer. Although new at the game and a bit timid, the sophomores soon showed their spirit and launched out into a program varied and interesting.

As the semester advanced they gave a skating party, several picnics, and informal parties, and joined their upper class members in the annual Mothers' and Sons' Banquet in May. They also participated with the Friendship Clubs and other Hi-Y's of the city in the Sunday forums conducted at the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. In every event by their interest and peppy cooperation they added to the development of the projects led by their seniors, learning as they went the traditions that they will carry on for the next two years. They are a valuable asset to our school, these fine youngsters, and will continue to develop a great deal as members of one of Libbey's most beneficial clubs.

THE PERIES

A Greek emblem on Chinese red! Well, why not in these days of cosmopolitanism and international-mindedness? The Peries with their annual boast "Second to none!" have gained distinction not only by their gay insignia but also by their club achievements and their service to the school. The girls resumed their social pace at a roast held in the early fall at the Edison Club. Later they romped and cheered through a mass-meeting which they conducted just before the Scott game. In December they sponsored a program honoring the Centennial of Toledo, carrying along during the entire period their fine programs. The very successful tenth annual Peri Prom at the Heather Downs Country Club was soon followed by the initiation party. A beautifully appointed tea to honor the cabinet members of the other Periclean groups of the city was an event of March. The conclusion of the activities came with the farewell banquet in May, at which the seniors with wistful thanks accepted their lovely lockets.

Constantly aiding the club in each enterprise were Miss Dusha and Miss Lok, the advisers. The officers included Jeanne Riddle, president; Bette Bock, vice-president; Madelyn Young, recording secretary; Virginia Hoopes, corresponding secretary; Julia Marsh, treasurer; Suzanne Schroeder, sergeant-at-arms; Mary Anne Watson, chaplain; and Ramona Knerr, censor.

THE PHILS

A classier group of girls we haven't seen for a long time. A scene familiar to us is President Alice Jane Connors strolling down the hall accompanied by Secretaries Arlene Sturzinger and Verdine Lewis on her left and on her right Vice-President Joan Wright and Treasurer Marjorie Drube. On one particular day, we remember, these girls came to school especially jubilant. Well, why shouldn't they be after giving such a grand dance? But this wasn't the only reason, for unexpectedly Santa Claus had stopped in at the dance as he was making his annual yuletide rounds, and generously hauled out his gifts. The dance was called "St. Nick's Swing" and St. Nick really did swing—his bag. Of course, this affair gave a great deal of pleasure but then there came into sight a beautifully laid table which could mean nothing else but a tea—a tea it was—and a very lovely one given at the Tally-Ho in honor of graduate members. There were a Salamagundy Party, a Mothers' tea, and finally the annual banquet which, in addition to the literary programs based on the customs of European countries, made a year rich in fun and seriousness. The club's advisers are Miss Gerdes, Miss Voorheis, and Miss Gosline.

FORUM AND Q.D.'S

Blue and orange sweaters flash past! Who are they? Why, the Forum and Q. D.'s, of course. Each club, a friendly rival of the other, lives up to its fundamental purpose: to further literary ideals and promote harmony among its members. The Forum, led by Mr. Hotchkiss and Mr. Weinstock had as officers: Don Bridenbaugh, president; Ray Proschek, vice-president; Eddie Evans, treasurer; Buel Morley, secretary, and Karl Hart, sergeant-at-arms. Included among their many social activities were a successful roast at Side Cut Park, a hilarious skating party at Memorial Hall, and a wet splash party. The Forum dance in May and the annual spring banquet climaxed their social season.

The Q. D.'s, under the critical eye of their advisers, Mr. Baker and Mr. Cony, have gained distinction not only in literary lines but in social activities. Led by their officers, Frank Morley, president; Edward Coyle, vice-president; Herbert Heinlein, secretary; Jack Comer, treasurer, and Don Durell, sergeant-at-arms, they have given us a taste of true sportsmanship and service. Among many of their social accomplishments was the roast held at Ft. Meigs, which was followed by a splash party at the K. of C. In March came the annual Q. D. Shindig, and later the farewell banquet.

ZETS

Did you say "Work"? Yes, we said work, and the Zets have gone farther and said "Nothing Without Work." This being their motto, the members have established themselves in Libbey's limelight because of the many activities which they have presented for the enjoyment and betterment of the group. Miss DeLisle and Miss Henderson, who served as counselors and advisers to the girls, were aided by the cabinet of which Georgana Jensen was president; Ellen Ruble, vice-president; Ruth Priest, recording secretary; Phyllis Myers, corresponding secretary; Fern Roberts, chaplain; and Lois Forquer, sergeant-at-arms. Besides the literary programs which were given monthly, the activities included: A mass meeting dealing with "The Signing of The Constitution," a city-wide tea for Zets, several doughnut sales, and a farewell banquet for the graduating members. Their annual dance, The Zet Shag, which was held March 25 at Trilby Log Cabin and arranged by Ellen Ruble, chairman, Ruth Priest, Lois Forquer, Fern Roberts, Jane Haertel, Violet Jacoby, and Betty Kardatzke again reflected the ability of the club. Judging by the rapid speed at which the Zets traveled during the past year and the progress that they made, their next year is one to be anticipated.

FRENCH CLUB

Did you ever try to explain a roller skating party or the sale of candy bars in French? Try it some time and you'll catch the spirit of the French Club members as they chat or sing or dramatize their efforts at their bi-monthly meetings. French is the constant theme of this group's activities—mais naturellement! Yet there were parties held in the fall and at Christmas and a joint skating party given with the Spanish Club. The proceeds of the candy sale in March helped, no doubt, to prepare for the annual banquet in May. The year's officers were Jane Dienst, president; Marjory Schminck, vice-president; Dorothy Spraggins, secretary; John Perry, treasurer; Mary Becker, George Grau, Joan Laub, and Arline Yaekel, censors, all of whom were capably advised by Miss Krueger.

Spain and Mexico furnished the theme for the Spanish Club's activities during the past year. At alternate meetings the members were regaled with accounts of Mexican lore, learning some of the native songs and dances, or they interested themselves in the history of some Latin-American country. Further diversion was given by the advisers Miss Russell and Miss Coehrs as they related their travel experiences in a vivid and fascinating way. A skating party helped the club's budget, while the initiation added new members to its roster. The officers who aided the advisers and members in maintaining the standards of the organization were Kenneth Alberti, president; Harold Zink, vice-president; Walter Lok, secretary; Patricia Womeldorff, treasurer; and Earl Graser, sergeant-at-arms.

GERMAN CLUB

The land of the Nibelungs with its music, romance, and fairy tales provides richness always for the programs of the German Club. Its members have been free throughout the year to invite their friends to participate in the songs, dances, and discussions which formed a part of the group's activities. Under the leadership of Miss Lok, the adviser; Corinne Meister, president; Gertrude Radde, vice-president; Lisa Herrmann, recording secretary; Alice Knorr, corresponding secretary; and Marian Will, treasurer, the club enjoyed a splendid year. In continuation of a tradition to leave a fitting gift as a tribute of their interest, the members this year have presented to the German classroom a map of Germany. The club completed its social activities with its annual banquet in the late spring.

Purely a honorary organization, the Latin Honor Society consists of students who have had the required qualifications: an "A" grade for two consecutive semesters of Latin study and thereafter at least a "B". To spread interest in Latin, each year the club sponsors an exhibition of notebooks, charts, and models pertaining to Roman lore. Medals are presented in each class. At Commencement the Latin Honor Society awards the Eta Sigma Phi medals to outstanding four-year students. Members may wear the insignia consisting of an "L", a laurel wreath proclaiming excellence, and a scroll for the study of a classical language. This year's register was headed by Virginia Hoopes, president; Marjorie Schminck, vice-president; and George Grube, secretary-treasurer. Miss Pauline E. Burton is the adviser.

UTAMARA

Budding artists find their fellowship in the Utamara where Libbey's art students gather to study commercial ways and means of painting. During the past year, the club has been busy promoting and extending knowledge of their own field among themselves. In this line several tours have been taken to the Holy Rosary Cathedral; to the Edison Building, where murals were viewed; and to the Libbey Owens Glass Company, where examples of art-glass ware were studied. In addition to the educational program the members have conducted a series of social events. Among the latter were skating and splash parties. The officers for the past year were Lou Simpson, president; Virginia Gray, vice-president; Marjorie Francis, secretary; and Madelyn Reed, treasurer. Miss Hazel Bartley is the adviser.

To win almost all the places in the Ohio State Fair Competition is more than any one school's share. But this is exactly what Libbey's architectural students have done. In addition to entering this competition, the club acts as a placement bureau for the employment of graduate industrial arts students. With Mr. Packer, adviser, Hugh Riffner, president; Earl Brubaker, vice-president; John Spurgeon, secretary; Jim Finger, treasurer, and Jack Spratt, sergeant-at-arms, as their leaders, these boys have carried out their series of social events and business activities in the last year. The architectural members have attained the happy medium of mixing business with pleasure, which is probably the prime reason for their interesting club work. To this club goes well-deserved praise for to Libbey they are, an asset.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Tomorrow's most capable homemakers are today's Home Economic Club members. The expert advice of the advisers, the Misses Owen, Wylie, and Lloyd, has helped to train the girls so they may better meet their social and health problems, as well as to fit them to successfully adjust themselves in later life. The theme this year was "Living Home Economics" and each program was looked forward to by the members because they knew something interesting and instructive would be offered for them to absorb and add to their store of knowledge. The girls found that part of the fun of having a party is the planning of it and the many charming hostesses arranged a Mothers' tea, an initiation banquet, and a Washington's Birthday party. Each girl in the sewing classes took pride in making part of her own Easter outfit and modeled it at the Style Show. The annual Spring banquet concluded the social affairs. Part of the success of the club was due to the efficient management of the cabinet: Evelyn Pettit, president; Doris Ritter, vice-president; Genevieve Wenzel, secretary; Margaret Wenzel, treasurer; and Florence Meek, reporter. This year the members were distinguished by little black barrel sweaters with a black-and-white emblem in the shape of a Betty Lamp, which is the Spirit of Home Economics.

BIOLOGY

Planning a program which would act as a stimulus to the nature-loving and scientific instincts of Libbeyites, the advisers, Miss Fiedler and Mr. Rusie, with the cooperation of the cabinet, Russel Wright, president; Helen Willard, vice-president; Ruth Gadt, secretary; Carolyn Zeck, treasurer; and Kenneth Schoenrock, sergeant-at-arms, arranged for movies, lectures, and trips. The bird seed campaign, one of the finest activities conducted at Libbey this year, was sponsored by the Biology Club in compliance with the Zoological Society. All the students were called upon to donate seed for the relief of the birds. On the social side, the members held a successful skating party.

In our modern world chemistry plays an important part. To see the many benefits and uses of chemical equipment the Alchemists toured the Filtration Plant. Their next interesting project was the visitation of the Libbey Glass Company which provided a good time as well as a good education. A talking picture produced by the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation was shown to the members. The Alchemists also saw experiments with liquid air, given by a man from the Air Reduction Company. Two initiations were held at which time the old members enjoyed watching the pledges receive many tortures and physical discomforts. The officers were Max Tadlock, president; Robert Schneider, vice-president; Caroline Plontz, secretary; and Roland Murphy, treasurer. The club's adviser is Mr. Vossler.

ENGINEERING

They dream of vast skyscrapers and giant bridges, for they are the engineers of tomorrow. Led by Walter Bogusz, president; Richard Drown, vice-president; Charles Thorpe, secretary; Robert Erkert, treasurer; and Howard Munson, sergeant-at-arms, the Engineering Club has worked to teach and inspire the members of the club. Capably advised by Mr. Sterling, the club has made many plant trips to observe the machinery which the members have discussed in actual motion. In addition, various interesting speakers have been provided who lectured on the engineering fields which interested most the group. But all the interest of these young engineers have not been serious, for they have enjoyed social functions which included dances, roasts, and several parties.

Here's a peppy club with an equally peppy adviser, Miss Gertrude Payne. It was formed this year in memory of and as a tribute to Mr. George Lawson, one of our best-loved teachers, who has passed from us. In order to give more of the members of the club a chance at leadership, Miss Payne used this year the plan of electing officers each semester. They include, First Semester: Richard Gail, president; Ray Krall, vice-president; Lorin Hardesty, secretary; Ben Hartman, treasurer; and John Iwinski, sergeant-at-arms. Second Semester: Warren Schmakiel, president; Richard Connin, vice-president; Paul Campbell, secretary; Jack Berry, treasurer; and Leonard Rominsarek, sergeant-at-arms. With their idol, "Smokey Stover" and their password "Foo," they come to us brand new this year.

COMMERCIAL

Theory and practice are well combined in two of our groups at Libbey, for the members of the activities department carry on the actual administration of a great number of actual school affairs, while the commercial club studies business methods but also has a goodly share of social activity.

This year the Commercial Club is proud of its reorganization and also of its many members, who will be tomorrow's business men and women. Undoubtedly one of Libbey's most active societies the Commercial Club does much to spread interest in the operations of business and to increase the knowledge of its own members concerning the practices of commerce and industry. Their program for the year attempted to familiarize the members with local companies by means of trips to plants and guest speakers who could explain the workings of large organizations. In accordance with their plan, during the year they visited the Driggs Dairy Company to view the machinery and methods used in preparing milk for human consumption. Not only did the club view this plant, but they were also treated to the actual products of the dairy plant. The club was also conducted through the bakeries of the Lakeside Biscuit Company, where each member received a box of cookies. One interesting speaker was Mr. Ross Billet, personnel director of the Toledo Scales Company, who explained how the employer handles working conditions and endeavors to aid his employees by placing them in positions more nearly in line with their interests, capacities, and abilities. A second speaker was Mr. A. J. Horn, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who told of the work of the Chamber of Commerce and its service to the community. Even though many educational activities were enjoyed the club also enjoyed themselves by means of roasts, parties and a spring skate. The success of this year's club is due to the careful planning and cooperation of the following advisers: Mrs. Houser, Mr. Smith, and Mr. Toepfer. The officers who served well throughout the year were Vera Blair, president; Mary Arft, vice-president; Betty Stetler, secretary; Neva Steiner, treasurer; and Roy Kamper, sergeant-at-arms. They have all been deserving of the thanks of the other members and of Libbey High for the services that they rendered during this last year.

The hub of activity is Room 109 where one can find anything from athletic scores to paper-cutting machines to postage stamps. To this group of real Libbey workers fall many of the tasks, both big and small which the smooth and efficient running of our school necessitates. A scene common to us was Dick McEwen flitting about through the building publicising this dance or that show for Dick has the title of publicity manager. Katherine Newman competently fulfilled her job as circulation manager for the Edelian. Then, too, there was that almost endless work of activities tickets payments, records, and distribution, which became the chief concern of Verdine Lewis. To Mr. Martin, and his splendid group we say, "Thanks loads for all you've done!"

"Do, re, mi, fa, sol, la, ti, do." What better way is there to start the day than by exercising your music-making muscles? This must be the theory of our Glee Club, for every day they have gone through the routine guided by Mr. Holland's baton. During the Christmas season the Libbey students and faculty enjoyed listening to the songsters harmonize to the beautiful strains of the well-loved carols. The Orchestra and Glee Club combined their efforts in the production of an evening concert given in March at the Libbey auditorium. On April first the chorus sang at Jones Junior High School. As a later activity the club participated in the annual May Festival. In their musical achievements the "song birds" were tremendously aided by their officers: Leonard Semler, president; Martin Topolski, vice-president; John Young, secretary; Eleanor Kruse, treasurer; and Eugene Langel, sergeant-at-arms. The inspirations we have received from their music showed us that this year's organization has been a very worthwhile and creditable factor in our school.

"The 'Swing Bug' has caught us and we must watch out," says Mr. Kenneth Holland who recently joined the Libbey faculty, "and so I shall attempt to instill into the hearts of the Libbey students a greater knowledge of the finer style of music." And how well he has, for it truly can be said that this year's orchestra and band are the most splendid which Libbey has ever had. The band, as always, lent its color and harmony to the football and basketball games, thus increasing the enthusiasm of the crowds. Beside this they gave several concerts during school hours for the students; one large evening concert for the enjoyment of the public was presented; and they participated in the May Festival. The officers were Jack Weech, president; John Knorr, business manager; and Alice Knorr, secretary. The orchestra, during the year, provided a fitting background for the historical programs given by the literary societies, and made several visits to nearby schools during the Christmas season.

Mr. Holland was overheard one day making the following remark: "I have been very much surprised. Generally, after the football season, the band decreases in number, but this year its membership was increased by five." This proves that his aim has been accomplished; that is, the Libbey students have become more music-conscious.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC

'Member how the DeVilbiss mass meeting put the gang into that Thanksgiving Day spirit? That was just one of the many rollicking activities sponsored by Sue Schroeder's "sports-loving gals." Not only did the members have activities for themselves, but they shared their fun with the rest of the fun-loving Libbeyites by sponsoring skating parties and after school dances. However, for their own entertainment, the members gave a roast at Ottawa Park wearing their bright blue sweaters with the dazzling yellow "L's". And the smell of those weiners would make anyone's mouth water.

Unable to wait for warm summer months, what could be more fun than fooling the weatherman and going swimming in March? In between their special activities, the girls have enjoyed themselves by playing volley ball, basketball and baseball twice a week after school. Of course, this wouldn't have anything to do with "keeping that trim waist-line"!

To climax the good times had during the year, the Athletic Association held its annual banquet. At this lovely affair, the girls received awards for their fine work and cooperation in the gym and at home. Not only were awards such as numerals, letters, and chevrons given, but also several seniors were honored by receiving special gifts.

As the members of this organization realize, fair play and good sportsmanship mean much more than athletic skill.

From this standpoint, one can readily see that sports, along with developing the body also develop the mind. Fine characteristics are what effect promotions and success in later life. A strong body and character indeed are worth much more than gold and silver ever could buy. The advisers, Miss Maher and Miss Clayton, have proved the worth of athletics in their fine methods of supervising the girls. In realizing that the girls who would come down after school for gym were interested enough to spend two afternoons a week for school athletics, these two supervisors have put forth a great effort to organize the teams so that the girls might participate in tournaments.

Of course, there are always some people—boys, perhaps—who think that girls know so little about basketball and other sports that it is, indeed, a shame to "waste the gym on them." It might be added that these young men should take a little trip down to the gym to have those "she" athletes show them how to play.

Perhaps an explanation is needed to explain the fact that some young ladies were seen playing tennis on the outside courts when there was snow on the ground. Well, no matter what the circumstances were, the Girls' Athletic Association was sponsoring a "hot" tennis tournament, which was being "cooled off" in the month of November.

The following officers have efficiently assisted Miss Maher and Miss Clayton during the past year: Sue Schroeder, president; Josephine Suter, vice-president; Mary Becker, secretary; and Helen Nostrant, treasurer.

DRAMATICS CLUB

"Quiet, everybody! Curtain!" With this admonition began each of the year's three successful dramas. With "Cab-bages", we were amused not only by the excellent comedy presented, but by the novel advertising which, in the form of a picket line, greeted us in front of the school. At Christmas time, "The Empty Room", a performance offered to spread the real spirit of Christmas, filled out the winter schedule of activities. In springtime our thespasians enacted a three-act drama, "The Bishop Misbehaves." Since Libbey has had but few regular stage shows in the past years, students and teachers welcomed the members, officers: George Webb, president; Joy Feemster, vice-president; Dorothy Leck, secretary; Annie Lee, corresponding secretary; and Jack Weech, treasurer; and the adviser, Miss Costigan.

Welcome Music Club! One of the newest of Libbey's many organizations, the Music Club, formed by thirteen followers of the Muse Terpsichore last October, under the direction of Mrs. Mills, is devoted to extending the appreciation of music throughout the student body. The officers for the first year were Dawn Baertschi, president; Audrey Connors, secretary; Virginia Franklin, treasurer; and Betty Hilding, recorder. At its regular meetings, the club received entertainment and instruction from performances by guest artists, speakers, or some of its own talented members who find in music an enjoyment. At other times they visited churches, homes, or attended concerts to gain further musical experience. The founding of this club has brought to Libbey a treasure that will never be surpassed.

"Team Rah!, Team Rah!" comes the shout from the stands as the blue-clad Libbey Cowboys run single file around the edges of the gridiron. On the far end of the stadium they quickly get into formation and run signals up and down the field. Then punting practice begins, with the long spiral kicks going far into the end zone. The captains come to the center of the field and in a moment the game begins.

In their first battle the Cowboys met Maumee in a thrilling game in which Libbey defeated the smaller team 32-0. Coach Houser sent the boys into the Woodward game in perfect condition, and, because of this, Libbey managed to come through with a hard fought 20-6 victory. Training methods adopted by Coach Houser from university and professional football teams were responsible for this superior physical condition.

Following gruelling, hot-weather practice and expert coaching by Bill Orwig, line coach, and "Bus" Harding, backfield coach, the Cowboys met their greatest test, the encounter with the fighting Irish of Central. In a see-saw game in which no team seemed to have an advantage, the Cowboys managed to push one touchdown across the goal. This came about through a Central fumble, which was recovered by Honorary Captain Dick Weber. When the smoke of battle cleared, the score was a 7-0 victory for the Cowboys.

In a fast game with the eleven from East Chicago, the Cowboys won a victory by a large margin. The score was 26-7. This game was a preparation for the big Scott game. On Scott's field an unexpected jinx came over the Cowboys' play and they were badly beaten 19-0. This was the low point of the season, but with remarkable fight, the team sprang back from what seemed like utter demoralization.

Coming back with renewed courage, the team scored an impressive 19-0 victory over Dayton Roosevelt. Although postponed by the stadium fire, which will hinder the athletic system for some time, the Lima Central game was played and Libbey turned in another victory, the score being 24-7. On the next week-end Libbey rose to the heights, almost defeating the powerful Waite team on their own field. Libbey made the first score, with Huston speeding over the goal line untouched. With a long pass Waite scored at the beginning of the second half. After this score the battle waxed hot, for Libbey still held a 7-6 lead. With each team held to a standstill by its opponent, Waite aided by one long run rushed through the line for the winning score 13-7. In this game, remarkable performances were turned in by the two stellar tackles, Snyder and Weber.

The last and most important game was the annual Turkey Day struggle in our own stadium. The only score of the game came in the first few minutes of play when DeVilbiss scored from mid-field. The rest of the game was hotly waged, but no team came within striking distance of the goal. The Cowboys' last futile effort was a long pass which tipped the fingers of the receiver who stood in the end zone. Although they lost, the team can pride themselves on the creditable showing they made against DeVilbiss.

Giving unstintingly of their time and efforts, the managers are deserving of our recognition. They spend long hours caring for equipment and aiding Mr. Martin in various necessary tasks about the stadium, gym, and athletic field.

FOOTBALL

On the whole, the 1937 season was successful, six games being won and three lost to nationally recognized teams, Scott, Waite and DeVilbiss. Besides being successful financially, there was a great lesson in sportsmanship learned by both players and spectators. The 1937 letter men are Captain Weber, Snyder, Semler, Russell, Magee, Stahl, Langel, Proschek, Hardesty, Young, Edwards, Nowicki, Kessler, Evans, Bridenbaugh, Olisyewski, Erkert, Zink, Rudolph, Moss, and Bowes. Marvin Snyder attained high honors when he was placed on the All-City team and then on the All-State team. Bob Edwards and Bob Stahl were placed on the second All-City team.

Playing a full schedule the reserve football team under the tutelage of Mr. Jeffery and Mr. Robinson, finished its season with but two defeats and five victories to their credit. The reserves are the boys who will fill the varsity positions next fall. Under careful coaching the players' abilities are brought out to the best advantage in preparation for a berth on the varsity.

Always ready to aid, Doctor Ladd and Doctor Young are responsible for the very fine physical condition of the many participants of Libbey's various sports. We all owe our hearty thanks to them for their time and untiring efforts.

OFFICIALS

A group can never rise higher than its leaders. In the athletic organization, Libbey has been fortunate in having as capable and efficient leaders as Mr. Stapleton, Mr. Martin, and Mr. Henrion. Until his very untimely death in December, Mr. Stapleton, as director of athletics, scheduled, arranged, and administered to all the athletics of the school. Under his direction, Mr. Martin was stadium and equipment manager, while Mr. Henrion, a former Libbey student, had charge of the financial affairs of the organization. In addition to their other duties, these men arranged advertising for the athletic department. Because of their work, Libbey's games always have had large crowds, which are essential to success in an athletic program. To succeed Mr. Stapleton, Mr. Martin was appointed athletic director. With his knowledge of the situation, Mr. Martin has followed the course set by Mr. Stapleton, thus insuring Libbey of continued success in athletics.

Year after year "Chip" Houser, through hard work and knowledge of the game, turns out powerful football teams. Aiding him are Mr. Orwig, the line coach, and Mr. Harding, the backfield coach. Through their united efforts these three men have developed a football team that is well coached in every sense. Beside being football line coach, Bill Orwig is head basketball coach. Here for only his second year, Coach Orwig has caused Libbey to be a real basketball threat. Through careful coaching his team placed third in the city, which is no mean accomplishment. Mr. Harding has had charge of the reserve basketball team.

With equal success, Mr. Everhart's track and cross country teams have earned high ratings. Through his thorough understanding of every phase of track and cross country, Coach Everhart developed teams worthy of any high school. Along with track and cross country he also coaches the freshman basketball squad. Through the efforts of Mr. Jeffery and Mr. Robinson, the varsity berths are always kept full with new football talent from the reserve squad. The main task of Coaches Jeffery and Robinson is to teach the rudiments of the game to untrained freshmen and sophomores. Last but not least, Mr. Spackey, with his careful training, coaches the golf and tennis teams and has led his boys to top places in the city and state. On the whole Libbey is fortunate to have this group of expert coaches.

Flashing bright new blue and gold uniforms, the Cowboy cagers whirled into action this year winning sixteen of their twenty-two games. Coach Bill Orwig, by long hours of drill, developed a marvelous defensive club, which no team could effectively penetrate. But for ill luck in hitting the basket, Libbey would have stood first in the city league. Although they had a bad start, the Cowboys managed to place third in the city standings.

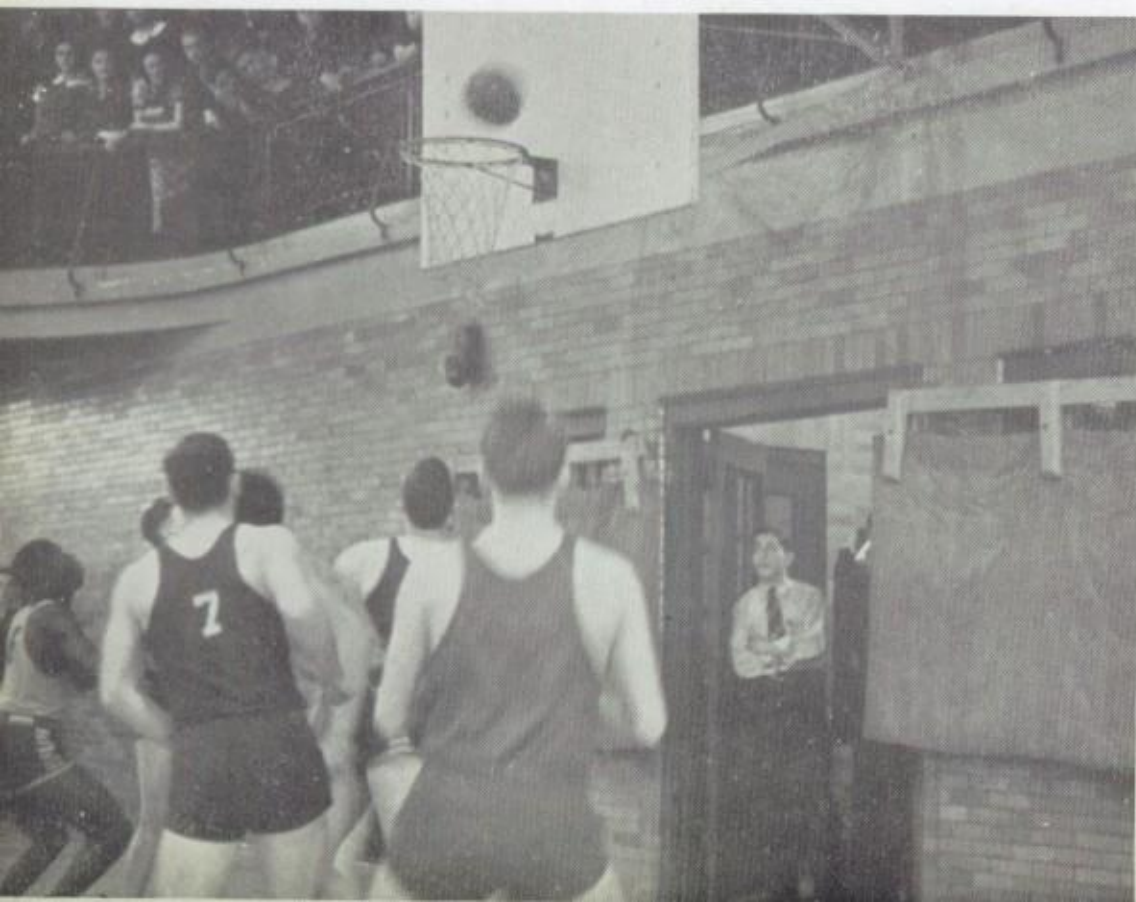

Opening their season with the Wayne quintet, the team, already showing their strong defense, defeated Wayne by a 35-25 score. With equally deliberate play the Cowboys defeated Tiffin Junior Order and Niles, Michigan, in turn by 34-30 and 31-25 scores. Playing next the plucky Rossford five, Libbey managed to win a thrilling game 20-18. Traveling to Bryan meant two more impressive victories. These pre-season games helped prepare the players for the more powerful city teams.

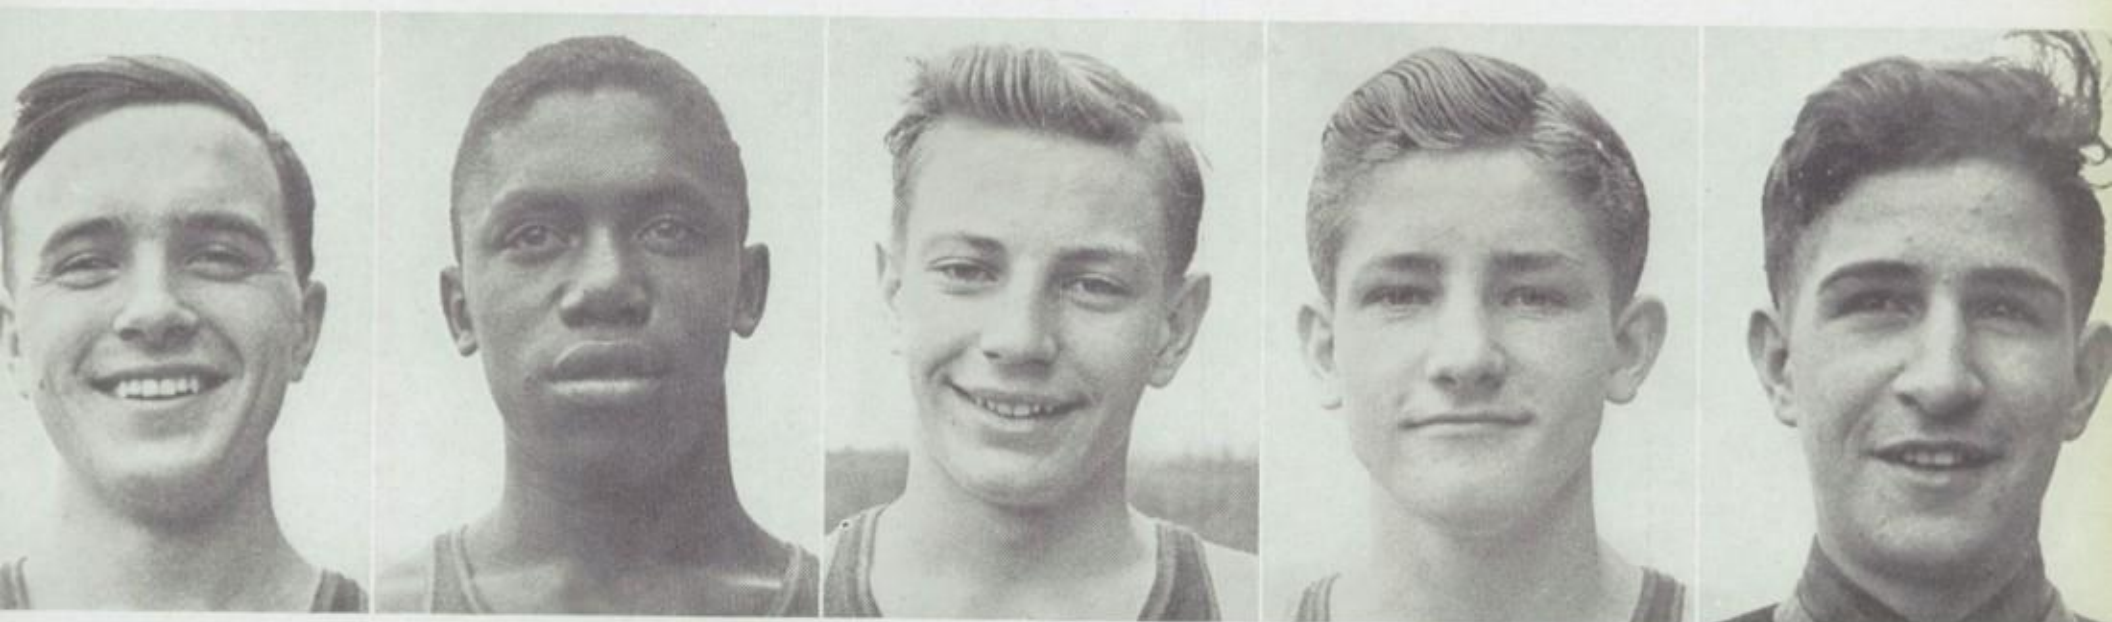

With a startling defense, the Cowboy quintet held Woodward to the lowest score of any city game this year, but because the ball rolled out of the hoop so often, Woodward eked out a 14-16 victory. This defeat was the beginning of a three-game losing streak, which left the Cowboys far down on the city list. The two other defeats came from the hands of the city-champion Waite team, by an 18-22 score, and from the large DeVilbiss team, by an 18-27 score. After these defeats the team, showing dogged courage, came back into the win column by defeating the fast Scott team on our own floor. The Cowboys, led by Wendell Moore and Bill Ammann, scored a 24-19 upset against Scott.

The team seemed to be hitting the basket more regularly now, but the sparkling defense was still their strongest factor, as the team continued with excellent play to win all their remaining games except the two last ones to the powerful Waite and Central teams. With their newly instilled fight, the Cowboys beat Vocational in an exciting 36-19 game. In a real thrill raiser, the team was victorious over the fast breaking Central team by a close 20-19 score. The winning basket came in the last few seconds of play to end one of the most exciting tilts of the season.

Meeting their second loss at the hands of Waite Indians, the Cowboys, although they played well, did not shoot accurately enough and ended up at the short end of a 13-25 score. The team still smarting from the Waite defeat, took revenge upon the DeVilbiss Tigers in a close 34-30 tilt. Opening up a brilliant offensive, the Blue and Gold won a decisive 37-29 victory over the Scott quintet, in a keenly waged battle on the Bulldog's floor. In quick succession Coach Orwig's boys then defeated Vocational and Port Huron by 44-22 and 27-18 scores respectively. A 26-35 defeat by the Fighting Irish of Central ended the Cowboys' four-game winning streak and blighted their chances of second place in the city standings. In the last city game, the Cowboys clinched third place in the city league by a stirring 23-16 victory over the Woodward Polar Bears.

Having been a strong tournament team always, the Cowboys were a real treat to the other teams of the district. Luckily in the first round the team drew a "bye" and in the second round the Cowboys met and defeated the weaker Vocational team by a 39-13 score. Then came the high point of the season, for by unexcelled team play the Cowboys upset the city-champion Waite team 23-20, when Bogusz's foul clinched the game in the last seconds play. In the finals the Cowboys were eked out of the state tournament by Woodward. In a hotly-waged battle Woodward managed to win 20-22.

The 1937 players: Bill Ammann, Wendel Moore, Paul Bowes, Dick Huston, Walter Bogusz, Harold Moss, Don Annen, Bob Stewart, and Gordon Hoffman, through the capable aid of Mr. Orwig, who is at Libbey for only his second year, managed to develop a basketball team worthy of Libbey, after a period of basketball depression.

It looks as if the Varsity has made another basket.

RESERVE BASKETBALL » BASEBALL » BOWLING

Down the floor they go, through the other team's defense, and the goal is good! Thus does Libbey's reserve basketball team show the effects of its diligent training under Mr. Jeffery. Starting with raw material, Mr. Jeffery has cheerfully taken these eager, fighting boys and trained them so that Libbey might have a bigger and better varsity next year. Equally as hard is the job of Mr. Everhart. It is he who coaches the freshman basketball squad. He takes a bunch of green, enthusiastic freshmen and instructs them in the rudiments of basketball. Some of them will go on to the reserves and perhaps the varsity. As soon as basketball time is past, one can hear sharp "cracks" reverberating through the air and the roar of a multitude of howling voices. Yes, baseball, the most popular of spring sports, is in season again. Mr. Jeffery took his material and built one of the finest school teams in the city, a team that provided plenty of exciting entertainment for the onlookers. After a fairly good season, Libbey went into the district tournament with a spirit that meant fight. Winning two games, the team lost out in a close defeat from Vocational. With a number of men returning, perhaps we can have a championship team next year. Less heard of, but none the less active in upholding Libbey's name, were Mr. Plough's bowling teams. The American League team held particular honors; for it not only won the league championship, but also had the highest three game scorer, Matthew Sobieszczanski, with a total score of 626 points. The National League team didn't do quite so well, placing directly behind Scott in third place. In addition, Libbey stands next to highest in team scoring, trailing Waite, and has the best composite standing in the city.

CROSS COUNTRY » GOLF » TENNIS » FACULTY BASKETBALL

Flashing by its opponents, Libbey's Cross Country team defeated all its rivals but one, the mighty Scott team. Great credit is due to Mr. Everhart, Lemke, Comer, Murphy, Ramsdell, Mault, Wernert, and Simonis for the way in which they strove to uphold Libbey's name. Determined to win, they fought on to place second in the district, going into the state tournament with new zip and being barely nosed out of first place by the powerful Akron East team.

Both the golf and tennis teams had good seasons. Johnson, Durfee, Hennessey, Hoskinson, Kaighen, Sweyer, and Heiner swatted their way through in good shape. The golf team, also under Mr. Spackey's supervision, was well above par, too. Dannenfelser, Pollex, Conrad, Hall, Morley, and Topolski came out with only one defeat. After again capturing the district tournament they went to the state match where they fell to fourth place.

Again faculty basketball had a bang-up team! Everyone enjoyed watching his teachers win fifteen of their seventeen games, losing only to the Monroe faculty and our own varsity. Mr. Spackey's boys really went to town against some pretty snappy teams, including Monroe, Sandusky, the News Bee, and our own varsity, who gave them their two toughest battles of the season. Our sincerest congratulations should go to Orwig, Houser, Rusie, Jeffery, Everhart, Robinson, Holland, and Martin, the players, and to Mr. Spackey, coach, manager, and consumer of much coffee!

Dear Betty,
I hope I don't see much of you & certainly enjoy your company during those times. You had me much happiness and I am sure you will get it.

Dear Betty,
Although
I haven't known
you very long,
I think you're a smooth kid, and
I hope I'll see more of you next year.

Dear Betty,
If I continue liking
you the way I do,
what will it be in a few years? "A!"
Always your friend,

Dear Betty
your pit cute
& sweet, I hope you & I will remain friends
Forever

Dear Betty,
I certainly have enjoyed your company this year. I hope our friendship will continue in the future as it has in the past.

Dear Betty,
 Although I detest
 being interrupted at lunch hours, I don't mind doing this for you in the least.
 You must come over often
 this summer or I'll die.
 Audrey

Dear Betty,
 Remember me as the guy that you showed a lot of good times too.
 T. S.

Dear Betty,
 Have luck
 & a grand time!
 Love,
 Jan

Dear Betty,
 I love you truly.
 Guess Who?

Dear Betty,
 I love you and I hope you love me
 too. I hope you will come over soon.
 Love,
 Jan
